Correction

In the article published February 6, entitled "Slides Shown on Local Scenes", G. A. Pitsenberger, county sanitarian, was quoted incorrectly. The correct quotation follows: "Physicians don't know exactly what viruses cause hepatitis. They think they know hepatitis is transmitted. They believe it is transmitted similarly to polio, typhoid fever and enteric diseases.

Heart Fund Helps Red Cross Project

The Virginia Heart Association has given $4,000 to the American Red Cross to pay the salary for a recruiter. This person will help blood donor volunteers for open heart surgery. Local citizens will be asked to contribute to the Heart Fund in February; to the American Red Cross in March.

Rebels Take Over Third Place

Feb. 4 — The Appomattox quintet trounced the Nelson Governors 71-39 in a very exciting match. Scoring: Richard Tyree showed surprising ability as he pumped in a fabulas 27 points for the Lynchburg team. The Group II, District IV victory over Nelson County moved Appomattox into the district's 3rd position. Nelson who led the district going into last Friday's games, was dropped to the fourth slot by this loss.

Nelson went into a 1-3-1 defense early in the game. This set-up bottles up the center position but leaves the corners and sides vulnerable. If the offensive team has trouble hitting at these points the defense is very effective and pronounce the chance of the shots under the goal. But the Rebel guards were hot and burned the nets up with long shots and split this defense wide open.

Smith, who was the games high scorer, shot 100 per cent at the foul line as well as dropping in 12 field goals. John Farrar and Wilfred Rodgers sand 15 and 11 points, respectively. Rodgers had a great night as he also snared 13 rebounds.

The Appomattox Rebels are now 6-4 in the conference and are very much in the champion ship.

In the preceeding game the Nelson girls downed the Lady Rebs 24-15. Mary Libby Tolley led the losers with 10 points.

Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Deaner, of Richmond, were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Moses Sunday.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Spencer Garrett, Jr., of Baltimore, are visiting his mother, Mrs. Spencer Garrett, Sr. and her mother, Mrs. Irvin C. Moses.

* * *

Mrs. J. C. Beard, of Rockville, spent several days last week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Franklin.

* * *

Mrs. James Crawford has returned home from the Memorial Hospital in Danville where she underwent surgery.

Bake Sale Sat.

Junior Tri-High-Y members of Appomattox High will hold a Bake Sale Saturday, February 15 in downtown Appomattox. All members are urged to bring baked goods to school Friday, or to the sale Saturday.

At their meeting February 6 Jr. Tri-Hi-Y vice presidents Nancy Jane Abbitt and Joyce Carter selected Maurine McCormick, Judy Goodrich Carlene Pitsenberger, and Mary Lou Martin to give short talks on "What Prayer Means to Me". Mr. Bobby L. Mize also spoke concerning the camp in Blue Ridge for the Tri-Hi-Y.

Concord Scouts Enjoy Camping

Five Boy Scouts of Scout Troop 144, Ottaford, commemorated National Scout Week with an outdoor camp on the grounds of Concord Elementary School over the week end.

The adventuresome Scouts included Sam Livingstone, Tommy Bass, Robert McKinney, Phillip Bass, and Richard Tolley.

Scout Troop 144 is jointly sponsored by the Ruritan Club

Appomattox Listed Visitors Favorite

Appomattox County Supervisor John C. Orde was among those gathering which heard a travel executive say,

"Opportunity, with a travel guide in its pocket, is knocking on Virginia's many doors." So spoke Russell E. Singer, Executive Vice President of the American Automobile Association, speaking at the Governor's Travel Conference in Richmond.

Singer said that the vast majority of World's Fair visitors will be traveling by automobile and that five and a half million will pass through Virginia in the next two years. Extra tourist spending as a result of the Fair could mean more than one billion dollars spent by vacationers in Virginia in 1964.

Appomattox Listed

A state survey placed Appomattox Court House National Park among the top fourteen attractions listed by visitors to Virginia, said Singer.

"Lovely scenery, improved highways, attractive resorts, historic attractions, are not exclusive to Virginia. But you can add to all these attractions . . . the friendly spirit of helpfulness and cooperation toward the visitor."

Among the slogans suggested by Singer were: "Make Your 19 64 Vacation Complete — the World's Fair and Virginia— a Look at the Future; an Appreciation of the Past."

Said Singer, "American travelers want to know what Virginia has to offer. Tell them."

4-H Sign Posted Near Pamplin

Through the efforts of the Lucky Clover 4-H Club and others in the Pamplin area, the first of a series of signs welcoming motorists was set up on Saturday at the eastern boundary of Appomattox County, Route 460. Property owner is George Bornemann. The sign was built by 4-H Clubs of Appomattox Welcome You" plus a reminder to drive safely. Money has already been given by the Senior 4-H Club of Appomattox to erect a similar sign at the western boundary of the county, on Rt. 460, and another is planned for 26, north, paid for by the Oakville Community 4-H Club.

Rural Affairs Institute To Be Discontinued

Changing times have led to changing plans for a traditional event on the Virginia Polytechnic Institute campus — the annual Institute of Rural Affairs.

W. H. Daugherty, director of the VPI Agricultural Extension Service which has sponsored the Institute for 39 years, explained that with present facilities at the university the Institute has to be held during the summer months when student dormitories can be used to house those attending. Summer, however, is the time the farmer and the businessman serving the farmer (who have made up the majority of those in attendance) are needed at the site of their operations.

The decision to terminate the Institute of Rural Affairs which annually has drawn hundreds of farmers and homemakers to the campus, was made only after careful study and consultation with many professional and lay leaders in Virginia. The study indicated no opportunity to increase the attendance of active farmers and agricultural leaders during the summer months.

Director Daugherty said he and other university officials hope and anticipate that the Virginia Federation of Home Demonstration Clubs and the Agricultural Conference Board will continue to hold their annual meetings at VPI.

About 60 per cent of the nearly 2.3 billion acres of land in the United States is devoted to agriculture and forests.

Dark Tobacco Sales Promotion Bill Presented

The Virginia dark-fired tobacco industry's efforts to boost sales by more aggressive promotion got a boost in the Virginia Legislature this week.

Senator Charles T. Moses, of Appomattox, introduced a bill which would create a Virginia dark-fired tobacco commission, and bring in farmers as a contributing group toward costs of sales promotion.

The bill would empower the commission to levy a 50 - cents per acre assessment yearly on tobacco growers. The revenue would be used to publicize dark-fired tobacco products and to create buyer demand for it.

Moses Is Patron

Senator Moses the bill's patron, is president of the Virginia Dark-Fired Tobacco Growers Marketing Association, which has its headquarters at Farmville.

The bill was proposed by and has the backing of the Virginia Dark-Fired and Bun-Cured Export Association, Inc., organized in 1962 and composed of the buying companies and warehousemen.

This association was organized to promote the sale of Virginia dark tobaccos in foreign countries. E. P. Lancaster, of Farmville, is general manager.

Under the plan as proposed by the new bill, warehouses would deduct the assessment yearly from the growers' first sale. This would be paid into the state treasury into a special dark-tobacco promotion fund. The proposed commission would direct disbursement of the funds in the interests of the dark tobacco industry and growers.

Governor Would Act

The commission members would be appointed by the governor. Their work would be similar to the Virginia Flue-Cured Tobacco Commission established in 1948. This commission currently contributes most of its funds to Tobacco Associates, which in turn combines them with funds from buyers and warehousemen for joint sales promotion efforts.

The new commission and the two-year-old Export Association should not be confused with the Dark Tobacco Sales Cooperative, a function of the cooperative is to process and sell stored government stocks acquired through the loan pool.

The proposed new effort would concentrate in building export and domestic markets that would take most the annual crops out of government pool operations into normal commercial trade channels.

A WIFE'S RETORT

At the end of the first week a way from home on a new job, the young husband wrote to his wife: "Made foreman—feather in my cap."

After the second week he wrote: "Made Manager — another feather in my cap."

After the third week he wired: "Fired — send money." His wife telegraphed back: "Use feathers, fly home."
